CAREER OF THE WEEK

Graphic Designer

Graphic designers create visual branding, adverts, brochures, magazines, website designs, product packaging and displays

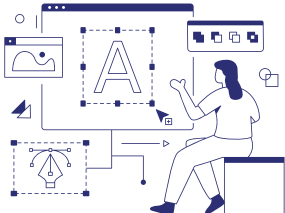

You can get into this job through:

- A University course
- A College course

Career Progression

With experience, you could:

- become a senior designer or creative director
- move into project or studio management
- go freelance or start your own design agency
- take up teaching or lecturing

UNIVERSITY

You could take a foundation degree, higher national diploma or degree in a design related subject like:

- graphic design
- art and design
- communication design
- illustration

Getting work experience during your course will give you an advantage when you start applying for jobs. Talk to your university careers service about work experience, internship and year placement opportunities, as well as any support offered to help you build a portfolio.

COLLEGE

You could take a college course in graphic design or art and design, and use this to join a company as a design assistant.

You would need a good portfolio to showcase your skills to employers.

Day to day tasks

Day to day, you could:

- discuss the client's requirements and come up with creative ideas
- work out budgets and deadlines
- produce drafts and present your ideas on wording, images and layout
- prepare designs using specialist software
- review what you've done to make sure it meets the design brief
- make presentations to clients for feedback and approval
- keep up to date with design trends and developments in software tools
