Word of the Week

This week's word of the week is 'their', 'they're' and 'there'. These are words that often confuse students and are common mistakes in written work. It is important that students can differentiate between them.

'Their' means it belongs to them, eg "I ate their sweets."

'They're' is short for 'they are' eg "They are going to the cinema this evening."

'There' refers to a place, eg "I'm going to cycle over there."

D-Day 80th Anniversary

A message from Mr Liley:

In the week when we commemorate the 80th Anniversary of D-Day I was fortunate to meet with a local historian this week; they spoke to a group of students about the events of that fateful day and the experiences of the people present. I was extremely proud of the sensitive and polite way which the students interacted with our visitor and with their mature reflections on the horrors of war. In a modern world which is often associated with fast paced social media and 24/7 news it was good to take time to reflect and remember those who fought for our freedoms. Our thoughts also must go out to all of those people across the world who are still being affected by wars.

Please nominate our school to win £1000 for the Library!

Five lucky schools from across the UK and Ireland will each win £1,000/€1,000, with one overall winner also receiving £500/€500 to upgrade their library space. Nominate a school to win one of our big prizes and encourage reading for pleasure all year round.

Career of the Week - Pathologist

To become a pathologist through the medical doctor route, you'll need to complete:

- a degree in medicine, recognised by the General Medical Council which takes 5 years
- a foundation course of general training which takes 2 years
- a specialist training programme in pathology which can take between 5 to 6 years

There's a lot of competition for places on medical degrees. Most universities will expect you to have done some paid or voluntary work experience in healthcare.

You'll usually need:

- 5 GCSEs at grades 9 to 4 (A* to C), or equivalent, including English, maths and science
- 3 A levels, or equivalent, including biology and chemistry

Depending on your area, as a pathologist you could:

- examine, explain and advice on the results of blood tests, smear tests and tissue removal
- research and develop new tests and treatments
- treat diseases and develop vaccines against diseases and conditions
- organise work in laboratories and supervise staff
- discuss the treatment of individual patients with other health professionals

Year 8 National Archives Live Event

On Monday 3rd June Year 8 students took part in the 'D-day live' event hosted by Dan Snow and the National archives. They explored the history of the D-day landings, heard stories from the relatives of soldiers who fought and explored original documents held in the archive.

Reflecting on the event the students said:

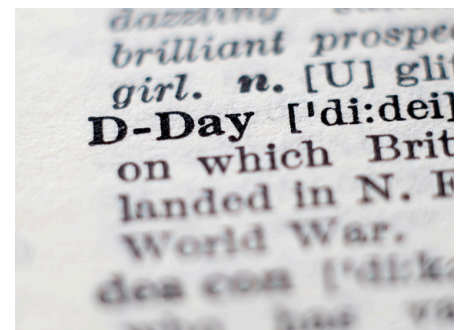

- 'I enjoyed watching the live and looking at the different documents and seeing Dan Snow interview people related to D-day.'

- 'It was very interesting to know information about these people who played a significant role.'

- 'I found it interesting and cool how there were brave double agents who managed to fool lots of people.'

- 'I think it is important to mark the 80th anniversary of D-day.'
